We're Looking for You!

The Annapolis Arts Alliance is seeking passionate advocates, community builders, and arts enthusiasts to join our Board of Directors. If you believe in the transformative power of creativity and want to help shape the future of the arts in Annapolis, we invite you to be part of our story.

Art as Transformation

Art doesn't just hang on walls or sit in studios. It builds bridges, sparks conversations, and creates the connections that make a community thrive. In Annapolis, the arts are alive and thriving because people like you believe in their power to bring us together, to amplify voices, and to make our city a place where creativity isn't a luxury but a fundamental right.

Right now, Annapolis is at a pivotal moment. Our creative community is facing real challenges around space, resources, and sustainable growth. But challenges also create opportunities, and organizations like ours are stepping up to meet this moment with vision and action.

Who We Are

The Annapolis Arts Alliance (AAA) has been championing this vision since [year]. As a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, we're committed to supporting local artists, fostering public engagement with the arts, and ensuring that everyone in our community, regardless of age, ability, or economic background, can participate in and benefit from creative expression.

Our Work in Action

Every day, we're turning belief into action and creating tangible opportunities for artists and community members to connect, grow, and thrive. Here's how we're making a difference right now:

- Scholarships—helping graduating high school seniors turn artistic passion into a profession.
- Art Buddies—our flagship program bringing art classes to elementary and middle school children in underserved communities.
- Internships—real-world experience and mentorship in digital art, communications, and IT.
- Gallery 57 West—where emerging and established artists exhibit, sell, build skills, and collaborate.
- Exhibition Space—intimate exhibits and receptions for local guilds, strengthening Annapolis's creative network.

Where We're Headed

Within five years, we're working to establish a dedicated community artist workspace, a hub for studios, education, meetings, and events. Artists across Annapolis need space to create, teach, and build sustainable practices. We're answering that call. This isn't just a building. It's a statement that Annapolis values its creative community and invests in the infrastructure that allows art to flourish and contribute to our city's economic and cultural vitality.

What Board Membership Looks Like

We're looking for passionate advocates who can commit to:

Engagement + Leadership

Attending six board meetings (every other month) and committee and community meetings based on your interests/expertise. Contributing written reports that keep our organization informed and accountable.

Resource Development

Making an annual personal gift that reflects your commitment to our mission. Participating in fundraising and community events. Activating your network to build support and awareness for AAA's work.

Governance + Stewardship

Upholding your fiduciary responsibilities with loyalty, care, good faith, confidentiality, and transparency. Helping us make strategic decisions that honor our mission and serve our community.
